

Three Possible Examples of Sector 8 Records Misidentified as Sector 7 Records for Voyager 1 LECP Data

Column Heading Key

SC Spacecraft
YEAR Calendar Year
DAY Day of the Year
HR Hour of the Day
MN Minute of the Hour
CH Rate-Channel Number
 (for PHA ID and Rate ID)
S Sector Number, (Note: * => Unknown)
D15 D1 or D5 Detector PHA Value
D2 D2 PHA Value
D3 D3 PHA Value
D4 D4 PHA Value
SPHACNT Number of PHA-Counts, excluding
 Rate-Channel's with Spikes
RTCNT Number of Rate Counts for Rate-Channel identified by "CH"

First Example, Day 254

During the records with times 07:48, 07:51, 07:55, and 07:58, things appear normal as the sectors change in the 6, 7, 8, and 8 pattern. Notice that during the sector 8 records there are CH03 and CH05 alpha source PHA data points and rate counts in the ~600 - 700 counts/record and ~100 - 200 counts/record ranges, respectively. In the 08:01 record, however, which is stated to be sector 7, the record still shows sector 8 - type source counts! In the next four record, 08:04, 08:07, 08:11, and 08:14 the sectors are labeled as unknown. Source counts persist until the last "unknown" record, 08:14. Then with record 08:17, labeled as sector 6, things return to normal. Note that if the sector had stepped by one with each record then the sector value for record 08:17 would have been sector 2.

The "Second" and "Third" examples given for days 255 and 340 follow the same pattern as this "First" example for day 254.

There appear to be on the order of 100 additional examples like these for V1 in 1992.
